Equal parts Borges, Burroughs, Baudrillard, and Black Ops, Dispute Plan to Prevent Future Luxury Constitution charts a treacherous landscape filled with paranoid master plans, failed schemes, and dubious histories.

Benjamin H. Bratton’s kaleidoscopic theory-fiction links the utopian fantasies of political violence with the equally utopian programs of security and control. Both rely on all manner of doubles, models, gimmicks, ruses, prototypes, and shock-and-awe campaigns to realize their propagandas of the deed, threat, and image. Blurring reality and delusion, they collaborate on a literally psychotic politics of architecture.

The cast of characters in this ensemble drama of righteous desperation and tactical trickery shuttle between fact and speculation, action and script, flesh and symbol, death and philosophy: insect urbanists, seditious masquerades, epistolary ideologues, distant dissimulations, carnivorous installations, forgotten footage, branded revolts, imploding skyscrapers, sentimental memorials, ad-hoc bunkers, sacred hijackings, vampire safe-houses, suburban enclaves, big-time proposals, ambient security protocols, disputed borders-of-convenience, empty research campuses, and robotic surgery.

In this mosaic we glimpse a future city built with designed violence and the violence of design. As one ratifies the other, the exception becomes the ruler.

Introduced by a conversation with Julieta Aranda
Benjamin H. Bratton

Dispute Plan to Prevent Future Luxury Constitution
Keller Easterling

5  Foreword: Another Part of Speech

10  The Orchid Mantis of Sanzhi

13  The Role of Megastructure in the Eschatology of John Frum (On OMA's Master Plan for the Spratly Islands)

41  The Purloining of Envelopes

54  For a Staging of Jean Genet’s The Balcony in 2007

114  “Of Simulation and Dissimulation” by Francis Bacon (published 1625)

119  El Proceso (The Process)

136  After the Chromopolitical Revolutions of 2005

142  Blast Footage: Operations and Apophenia

176  “Actually, we found more than one pulse, Sir …” (with Ed Keller)

192  On Deprofessionalizing Surgery